POWELL PAROLED, IN PARLEY WITH CONSULS ON BANDITS' LAST TERMS!

LEON FRIEDMAN SENDS HIS WILL TO BROTHER

Captive Writes Two More Interesting Letters, Expressing Hope Friends Will Keep Up Agitation For Release Of Prisoners; Thinks Use Of Force By Troops Will Endanger Lives Of All The Captives; Says He Is Aiding Musso, Who Is In Bad Health

Mr. Leon Friedman, General Manager of China Motors, one of the captives of the Paotzuku bandits, has made his will. It was received yesterday on the back of a letter written to Capt. P. A. Miller of Shanghai, and is witnessed by Mr. J. B. Powell and Commander G. D. Musso. It is dated in the prison camp, last Sunday morning, May 20, 1923. There is also a letter to Mr. Max Friedman.

The handwriting is not so firm as has been the case in previous letters and in one place Mr. Friedman doesn't quite spell out his own name. The letters to Capt. Miller and to Mr. Max Friedman are logical and clear and will be of high interest. Both are dated last Sunday morning. The letter to Capt. Miller reads:

Dear Paddy: Just a few lines to let you know that I am still among the living. We don't know how soon we will be released as the Chinese officials are playing politics and are fooling the foreign officials by assuring them that we will be released in a few days. We now have plenty of food and cots and cooking utensils and I am in good health. We are trying to keep up in spirits but it is a grim experience. They have been moving us from place to place and yesterday they took Lee Solomon and the two American Army Majors to the top of their mountain which is their last stronghold. We expect to be taken up there ourselves if negotiations fail today or tomorrow. We are still in danger of our lives in the event that the Chinese troops use force in trying to release us or to capture the bandits.

I have been taking care of Musso who is in bad health. We are hoping that the foreign authorities are doing their best to force the Peking officials to expedite our release. It is some experience—to be remembered for a life time. I hope you are all well and am hoping to join you soon. With kindest regards to all,

Yours truly,
Leon Friedman.

LETTER TO MAX FRIEDMAN

The letter to Mr. Max Friedman reads as follows:

Dear Max: I just received your letter dated May 15. Things are about the same as per my letter to you of yesterday.....I am in good health and I am trying to keep up our spirits but things are getting very serious. The Peking officials are getting to play politics and, the bandits are mistrusting them and they are fooling everybody with a lot of fake statements. We have ample food, etc., but what we all want is to be released as soon as possible. I am writing this also to Paddy (referring to Will) who will bear witness as to receiving same.....I don't write this because I am pessimistic about my returning but as a matter of precaution as I have no will of any kind. Stir up as much interest as possible in our cause as we don't want the interest to die out or the people to get over-optimistic about us until we are released.

Leon Friedman.

(Note: The will is contained in the foregoing letter but its terms are deleted as being a private matter. The witnesses both as to letters and will are Messrs. Powell and Musso, fellow captives).

PASTEUR'S BIRTHDAY

Theo Saphiere Gets Out Some News

Bandit Headquarters, Paotzuku, Sunday, May 20, 1923. Camp "A".

Dear Larry: We're still up at the same old place. The two Majors and Lee Solomon have been shoved up the Peak. We expect to follow at any time.

The present serves to express our appreciation for the very valuable aid you have given us in forwarding mail and attending to supplies, which are reaching us regularly.

Our spare moments are centered in killing scorpions and centipedes, which is replacing the indoor sport of "Beaver" at this Camp (Bugs and Fleas are barred).

Hoping to see you soon in Shanghai, and with Best Wishes,
Yours truly,
Theo Saphiere,
Eddie Elias,
Emile Gensburger.

Hankow Citizens In Strong Protest

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, May 25.—A mass meeting of the foreign residents of Hankow last night adopted a resolution urging the foreign Governments to insist that the Chinese Government shall withdraw its troops and officials from Lincheng, that the foreign Legations shall take up direct negotiations with the bandits for the immediate release of the captives, holding the Chinese Government responsible for the liability incurred in settlement, and also that the foreign Legations insist that the Chinese Government punish the authorities who permitted the outrages to occur in the district under their control.

The meeting approved the suggestion put forward for the guarding of trunk railways by gendarmerie with foreign officers and recommended that it should immediately be adopted.

With regard to Chikungshan and Kuling, the meeting urged the continued presence of big warships at Hankow and Kinkiang.

The meeting finally urged that the foreign representatives should notify their Governments of the possibility, if not the probability, of foreign armed intervention on an extensive scale being required in the near future.

THE NARRATIVE OF OUR CAPTIVITY BY CHINESE BANDITS

BY LEE SOLOMON

Paotzuku Bandit Camp (Topside)
May 20, 8:30 p.m.

Just a few lines to tell you I am nearer Heaven. About 300 feet nearer—and it was a hard climb. We are on top of the peak. We can look down on between 80 to 100 mountain peaks, 25 to 30 mountain ranges and some 30 valleys in all directions, and in the midday can see some 75 miles at least. We are almost all the time above the clouds here, and sometimes cannot see the mountain valleys and villages below. This would be a wonderful place for a movie man, but it's a hell of a place to be a prisoner in. Will write more in the a.m.

Later—10 p.m.—A little more news as we had a minor operation in our dug-out tonight by candle light. I have had bad fect and as my big toe is giving me a lot of trouble, Major Doc. Allen took the nail off in order to drain the toe. All's well now, and we are about ready for bed.

Am making you an exact plan of the layout of this fortress and prison at the top of the peak where we are. It is very well built and could hold out a very long time, if besieged. All this, forts, water tanks, holes and dug outs are cut in the solid granite.

ONLY ONE WAY OUT

There is only one way in or out of the place and that is by the ladder cut in the wall.

The place is about two acres, and all around there are trenches newly dug. There are three water holes, one in front of the wrecked temple, the others over to the south of the summit.

Right across from the temple is the storehouse which is filled mostly with bean cake, and such. Next to this there is the magazine, and beyond that the dug out in which Allen and Pinger and I live. The bandits have dug outs and huts all over the place. They are very well organised.

When it became known in the lower camp that Pinger and Allen and Solomon were to be forced up to the top of Paotzuku, well, I'll say that I thought something was going to happen. None of the others seemed to be going with us, but I guess probably they will follow. We started to get a few things together, but they hurried us up those stairs.

300 FEET STONE STAIRS

That was some climb, for the last 300 feet or so up those stone stairs cut in the wall.

We said what farewells were possible, and, there was no telling if we were going to meet again; and I thought that if we ever got to the summit—well, good-night!

Well, we've got to turn in now, so I guess good-night is right, too.

Crow's Daily Menu For Captives Certainly Beats What We Had Yesterday

By Lloyd ("Larry") Lehrbas
(China Press Staff Correspondent)

Tsao Chuang, May 23 (11 p.m.).—To give the relatives and friends of the fourteen captives on Paotzuku full information I have obtained from Mr. Carl Crow, who has been doing and is still doing such splendid work as a representative of the American Chamber of Commerce and the American Red Cross as head of the commissary department for the prisoners, a daily list of the rations sent to the two captives' camps at The Temple in The Clouds and the prison on top of Paotzuku.

Each day the coolies carry the following supplies "up into the hills": 2 tins oatmeal, 6 pounds sugar, one package salt, 20 pounds potatoes, 5 pounds onions, 15 tins of corned beef or its equivalent in salmon, sardines or other tinned meats and fish, 15 pounds of bread or biscuits, 9 tins of fruit, 9 tins of vegetables, 5 pounds of Sunmaid Raisins, 2 pounds of cheese, 6 tins of jam, 4 pounds of butter, one bottle of lime juice, two bottles of grape juice, five cases of silent water, one bottle of brandy, two tubes of toothpaste, six bars of laundry soap, six tablets of toilet soap, 6 bottles (liters) of kerosene, 12 Sterno tins, one package toilet paper, two boxes of cheap cigars for trading purposes, one box of good cigars, 1,000 cigarettes, 60 envelopes, 30 small tins of milk, 12 boxes of matches, one tin of cocoa, one tin of coffee, one tin of tea, one tin sweet biscuits, 3 lbs. of rice, one package of candy, one tin of smoking tobacco, one bottle of fruit salts, thirty candles, 8 towels, one package of medicine containing quinine, cascara, aspirin and iodine, three rolls of bandages, six lead pencils, 100 sheets of writing paper, and all available reading matter. Ten copies of THE CHINA PRESS are sent each day and forwarded but all stories concerning the bandits are clipped before the papers are sent. In addition a number of special packages are sent each day.

DON'T DUPLICATE

From the above list it can be seen that while the captives are not living like kings they are at least getting enough good, wholesome food to keep in good physical condition, with a few luxuries on the side. Mr. Crow has now enough coolies so that he can send special packages to the captives from friends and relatives in Shanghai, but things not on the list should be sent so that there will be no duplication.

Requests of the captives for special things are always complied with when possible either through purchases in Hsuchowfu or in Shanghai. In Hsuchowfu, Mr. Fryer of the British-American Tobacco Company has been making purchases for Mr. Crow every day

PARIS CABINET RESIGNS, DUE TO ATTITUDE OF SENATORS

Sland Of Upper House In Cachin Case Brings Crisis

MILLERAND ACTS

Refuses To Accept Dictum Of Ministers

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 24.—The Poincare Cabinet has resigned in consequence of the decision of the Senate that it is incompetent to try M. Marcel Cachin and other French Communists, who were arrested in the Ruhr at the time of the French occupation on charges of plotting against the State. President Millerand has declined to accept the resignation.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 24 (Later).—The Senate, giving the decision in the case of M. Cachin and 32 other Communists which resulted in the Ministerial crisis, was sitting as a High Court.

The accused were charged with revolutionary activities at the time of the French occupation of the Ruhr in January. The German Reichstag Deputy, Herr Hoetlein, was also accused in respect of speeches delivered in Paris in March.

After the Public Prosecutor had read the indictment, the Court, presided over by M. Doumergue, held a discussion within closed doors for 3½ hours, after which it declared by a majority of 30 that it was incompetent to try the cases.

M. Poincare thereupon called a Cabinet Council and decided to go to the Elysee and resign on the ground that the Senate's vote indicated non-confidence in the Cabinet. President Millerand, however, refused to accept his resignation.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 24.—It is pointed out that the Senate's decision does not mean the release of the Communists but implies the opinion that the accused should be tried by a Court of Assize instead of by a High Court of Justice. Consequently no political issue is involved.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 25.—The Ministerial crisis was preceded by a rather colorless debate in the Chamber of Deputies on the subject of the Ruhr, in the course of which M. Poincare affirmed his resolve not to consent to the German desire for a three years' moratorium.

The Premier referred to the satisfactory increase in the supplies of coal and coke from the Ruhr. He said that France could afford to await a first move by Germany. France would not admit any modification of the 1921 scheme of payments.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 25.—The papers today are unanimous in emphasising that the Senate's decision with regard to the Communists is purely legal and does not imply lack of confidence in M. Poincare from a political point of view.

They dwell on the tremendous reception given to the Premier in the Chamber in the course of the debate on the Ruhr yesterday evening when his speech was practically unanimously ovated.

The papers point out that President Millerand has not postponed his visit to Alsace-Lorraine, whither he departs this evening.

This is regarded as confirming the general view that the incident has been closed.

EDITOR IN TSAOCHUANG FOR TWENTY-FOUR HOURS

Shanghai Man Brings Latest Proposal Of Outlaws And Goes Immediately Into Conference With Consular And Chinese Officials—Tuchun Tien Back From Conference With Tsao Kun, Who Consents To Force "As Last Resort"

By Lloyd ("Larry") Lehrbas
(China Press Staff Correspondent)

Tsaochuang, May 25.—J. B. Powell was paroled today and arrived here at 6:30 o'clock this evening. He went into conference immediately with the foreign consular and Chinese officials. He brings the latest proposals of the bandits. His parole is for twentyfour hours only.

(Reuters Pacific Service)

Peking, May 25.—General Tien Chung-yu returned from Paotingfu this morning.

It is understood that General Tsao Kun agreed to the use of force against the bandits as a last resort but that he desires a pacific policy to be tried first.

General Tien Chung-yu saw the President, the Premier and the members of the Cabinet this morning. He is leaving for Lincheng this afternoon and it is believed that he has been given a free hand.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tsaochuang, May 24.—The entire suspension of local negotiations for the release of the captives has puzzled the bandits. The suspension is, of course, due to the breakdown of the Tuchun's proposals, and those of General Yang I-teh. All the Chinese officials left for Peking at the end of last week, or the beginning of this, so that no more proposals have been made.

In a letter to Mr. Modde, a German engineer resident here, Father Bues, the Catholic priest who has visited the bandit camp, mentions the bandits' surprise that nothing further has been done. One of the priests' servants went up to the camp and he was told by the chief to ask why no more proposals had been made.

Father Bues replied that if the bandits would release Mr. Musso so that he could be attended by a doctor he would do all in his power to help. The priest suggested that Mr. Musso could return to the camp if necessary.

Another request the bandits have made, through the Relief Party's coolies, as well, I believe, as through Father Bues, is that newspapers should be sent up to Paotzuku. Up to a day or two ago copies of the various papers were sent up, but since the news has been of rather a depressing nature, it was thought advisable not to send them. So that the captives should not be entirely without reading matter, the foreign service was cut out and sent up, together with all the amusing articles that could be found.

That the bandits support the request for newspapers is taken as an indication that they have hitherto been closely following the trend of events outside and consequently have been able to play their cards to the best advantage. It is intended to delete all reference to the Lincheng outrage before sending the papers up to the camp.

Letters received from Paotzuku yesterday make no mention of other captives being sent to the top of the mountain.

All express the hope that release will not be delayed much longer, and references to the summit of the mountain describe it as very insanitary.

Mr. Solomon mentions that the bandits say that the Chinese officials have been lying to the foreigners.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tsaochuang, May 24 (7.55 p.m.)—The bandit representative and Mr. Powell have not arrived by this evening. It is believed that the bandits are holding another conference, and they may come down tomorrow.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tsaochuang, May 24 (10.20 p.m.).—Fairly heavy firing was heard six miles north of Tsaochuang tonight. It is assumed that either the bandits are attempting to escape to the hills to the rear of Paotzuku, or more bandits are joining the Paotzuku band, or that the bandits have quarrelled amongst themselves.

The messenger tonight says that the prisoners have been moved two or three miles, but the letters from Paotzuku do not mention it.

POWELL THANKS FRIENDS HERE FOR INTEREST TAKEN

Carl Crow Doing Great Work At Tsaochuang He Says

In connection with the parole of Mr. Powell, we are indebted to Mr. J. Harold Dollar for permission to publish the subjoined letter received yesterday:

Paozuku,
Monday, May 21, at 11:30 a.m.

Mr. J. Harold Dollar, President American Chamber of Commerce, Shanghai.

Dear Mr. Dollar: Since we can now get letters through the bandit lines, I am writing on behalf of the captives in this bandit camp to thank you and the board of directors and officers and members of the Chamber for your thoughtfulness and enterprise in organising our food and relief supply. Mr. Crow has done wonderful work. We want you all to know we appreciate it and also to know that we will always feel indebted to you all and as a matter of fact the whole foreign community in Shanghai for their interest in our welfare and their work in our behalf in every way.

We have now been in captivity for sixteen days and from all we can tell from the inside may be the victims of Chinese politics for an indefinite period.

We are now getting sufficient food and are as comfortable as could be expected amidst the dirt and vermin around us. The worst thing is the uncertainty and anxiety, for we never know what to expect next since we are totally at the mercy of this gang, which is well armed and munitioned.

With further thanks for your help and interest and regards to all our friends and relatives in Shanghai and elsewhere, we are Sincerely: Wm. Smith, M. Ancira Verea, Theo. Saphiere, S. C. Hung, Fred Elias, E. W. Elias, V. C. Chen, J. A. Henley, G. D. Musso, J. B. Powell, Leon Friedman, R. H. Rowlatt, E. Gensburger.

P.S. Also signed on behalf of Majors Allen and Pinger and Solomon, who have been taken to the top of the mountain and are inaccessible.

J. B. POWELL.

Pinger Finds Paotzuku Peak Nameless Horror; Prison Of Dying Children

BY LARRY LEHRBAS
(Staff Correspondent)

Tsao Chuang, May 24 (8 a.m.).—A terrible children's prison on a weird mountain top in the midst of the wildest country in Shantung is painted in a vivid word-picture received today from Major Roland Pinger, Ordnance Corps, U.S.A., who with Major Robert Allen, Medical Corps, U. S. A., and Mr. Lee Solomon of Shanghai is now a prisoner on the same mountain top.

Major Pinger wrote from the top of Pao Tzu Ku to Major Horsfall, the American language officer who is a member of the American relief party in camp here. In his letter he also describes Pao Tzu Ku—the 'mountain where the bandits live' —and gives his general impressions of their mountain-top prison.

"Just how high we are," Major Pinger writes, "I cannot tell, but every morning the fog and mist and clouds are hundreds of feet below us with the peaks sticking out here and there. I imagine we have about two acres up here in a sort of pear-shaped area, 400 feet long and 150 feet wide. The complete perishere is surrounded by one line of trenches and small dug-outs, and the 'round' part of the pear by a second line. In addition to three large water tanks (containing about 3,000 gallons which coolies carried up the mountain path the day following the abandonment of the siege of Pao Tzu Ku by General Wu's troops) the bandits have a large number of earthen jars of all sizes which are uncovered before each shower—we have had two in three days.

"In one of the buildings is quite a quantity of bean-cake about 18 inches in diameter and 2 inches thick, besides sacks of meal of some sort, so apparently the bandits could withstand a siege without being starved out.

"The only entrance is on the West by a sort of stairway guarded at the top by three men. We wander around on top at our will and our guard merely sleeps by us at night.

CHINESE CAPTIVES

"I would estimate the Chinese prisoners here at fifty, of whom at least one half are children from the ages of five to twelve. Several of them are merely little living skeletons, but so probably from disease rather than actual starvation. Their clothing indicates that they have come from fairly well-to-do homes, and we understand that, in some cases, they have been here for a year. All are unspeakably filthy, scabby and listless. Instead of romping about like normal children they merely sit on their miserable straw and rags as if their last hope had fled.

"We would like to give them some of our food or amuse them in some way, but we are afraid that the bandits would then cut down their normal food supply. In addition it would be extremely easy for us to contract some horrible disease from them.

"When Solomon, Allen and myself arrived we were assigned to a long building in which a lot of Chinese prisoners were already quartered and the stench of which was hardly appetising. We protested and on looking around found this little dug-out which is about eight feet by twelve feet. The boss bandit agreed to let us have it and put a couple of Chinese at work cleaning it out with a shovel. Apparently our reputation for cleanliness had gone ahead of us.

"In the morning we had some matting put in the ceiling to keep the dirt from falling down on our heads. It's a little dark and the only light comes through a door a foot and a half wide and four feet high. The ventilation, however, is surprisingly good, so we have suffered little from discomfort. In good weather, of course, we spend most of our time out-of-doors."

SUPPLIES SENT

As soon as Carl Crow, the American Chamber of Commerce's representative, learned of the three captives being separated from the others and taken to the top of the mountain, he made his supply plans accordingly. Allen, three men now have separate packages of good stuffs and other supplies taken to them direct instead of passing through the camp at the Temple in The Clouds, where the other captives are still kept.

In addition to the other supplies—and they were sent largely emergency rations for fear carrier service to the top of the mountain should be cut off—he sent wire to screen their dug-out against flies, which are reported to be extremely thick. He also bought all the sticky fly-paper available in this little village and has ordered other supplies of anti-fly paper and solutions.

Five cases of silent water are also being sent to the hill-top with a special consignment for Allen, Pinger and Solomon for they are even worse off for good water than the other captives.

(Reuter's Service)

Tsaochuang, May 25—Major Pinger gives more detailed accounts of the summit of Paotzuku. He says he is unable to give the height of the mountain, but every morning they see the clouds and the fog far below them, and the other peaks in the district standing out above.

The top of the mountain is about two acres in extent, and all around is a line of trenches with dugouts, and a second line guarding the center part.

The water supply is contained in three tanks, each capable of storing about one thousand gallons, while there are are also a number of jars which are uncovered when it rains. The food, mostly bean cake and meal flour, is in the buildings, and there is sufficient to withstand a long siege if the necessity arose.

The only entrance or means of getting to the top is by a stairway cut in the rock, and this is guarded by three bandits.

The number of Chinese prisoners is estimated by Major Pinger at forty, half of them being children between five and twelve years old. Several of them are merely living skeletons, wasted away by disease rather than by actual starvation. Some of them have been there over a year. All are filthy, unspeakably so, and are scabby and listless, sitting on their miserable straw beds all day as if their last hope had gone.

The foreigners would like to help them, but are afraid to do so for fear of the guard cutting down their normal supply of food, and also because of the danger of catching disease.

When the three were first sent up, they were placed in a building occupied by Chinese prisoners, but protests to the chief enabled them to be transferred to a dugout which was first cleaned out by the Chinese. The ventilation of the dugout is good, and the prisoners are also allowed to roam about the summit.

Major Pinger adds that there is plenty of soft soil at the top, and it is evident that the monks who formerly inhabited the mountain, cultivated a farm.

Other details which have reached the relief party show that a number of brigands and prisoners died during the siege which was recently raised, and their graves are scattered about the top of Paotzuku.

Krupps Want U. S. Envoy Released

Berlin, May 24.—The Krupp directorate has requested the Government to release Dr. Wiedfeldt, the German Ambassador to the United States, as a diplomat in order to enable him to resume his former post as General Manager of Krupp's in consequence of the difficulties caused by the recent arrests of and sentences on the Krupp directors in the Ruhr.

so eat plenty. Come before the rush." Paotzuku Scrambled Eggs, 2 cans Campbell's soups, coffee, no bread, Golden State butter, stewed cherries bought with 20 cents which cook stole from bandits while latter asleep.

Camp cook, L. C. Solomon; dish washer, Major Pinger; assistant cook, Rowlatt; fireman, Chang. His finger is burnt which means more work for cook.

Afternoon tea, Sardines, Kraft Cheese, year old crackers, Hainan cigarettes, and cabbage cigars.

THE FOURTEENTH DAY

Saturday, May 19, 10 a.m.—Our fourteenth day in captivity and getting harder every day to stick it out and more so since we have received bedding as it makes it look like a long stay and as the chiefs inform us the Government officials don't keep their word and that no negotiations of any kind have yet started, so it seems to us the Chinese officials are giving you untrue information as to the way things are progressing.

Yesterday was a tough one, raining all day, therefore unable to do our washing, but Oh Boy! it did feel good to sleep between clean sheets on a mattress in a cot instead of on the ground or the soft side of the temple doors.

Every man in camp as well as bandit guards has a bad cold.

Today the camp is all dressed up as the following have their own clothes which have been sent up. Friedman has his own suit, but Roy Anderson's shirt. Henley looks like he is going to the races. Musso still in bed with pajamas. Powell has own clothes (some of them).

Solomon has pair of Roy Anderson's shoes and his shirt (some fit). Smith has straw hat and khaki suit; also Pinger who has also Chinese shoes. The Ellsos Saphiere and Gensburger have their own clothes and feel they're all picked up.

THE BIG CHIEF APPEARS

Whiskers are getting longer every day, and I'll say there are a bunch of them.

Most of the bandits are friendly with us but when their chiefs spot them, they change their manners.

The Big Chief appeared on the job the other day and it seems he is a very wealthy land owner in this part of the country.

In all there are six or seven chiefs and forty or fifty captains. They're well organised, have lots of ammunition, but depend for their chow to get it as they go along.

Well, the mail closes, so will send more later.

P.S. Please send me some pipe tobacco and cough medicine.

(Note: We have no further installment in hand).

AUDACIOUS ANGLES ON CHINA
The Companion Piece to the Diary of a Shanghai Baby
By ELSIE McCORMICK

Have you ever sat with your best fountain-pen in hand, trying to write a letter home that will give your friends a clear idea of life in the Far East? If so, you know how hopeless it is to convey any adequate notion of social conditions, Chinese customs, and all the humorous slants on housekeeping and business common in the everyday experience of the Shanghai resident.

Miss McCormick's book, "Audacious Angles on China," is exactly what you want to send home. It consists of 221 pages of concentrated cleverness, touching as many aspects of life in the Far East as could be packed between the covers. Thirty-six of the best sketches which Miss McCormick has written for the CHINA PRESS during the past year are combined to make up the volume, including such popular favorites as "Chinese Jazz," "Pid-gin English," "The City of Twinkling Toes," "Enter the Sing-Song Girl," "Nobody Loves a Chinese Tailor," and other articles which called forth particularly favorable comment.

Attractively Bound, you will want a copy for yourself as well as the folks at home.

W.H.C. SUPER-DURABLE FLAT PAINT
FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

as it is impossible to secure the things needed in Tsao Chuang. Mr. Crow bought out the two local Cantonese shops' supply of foreign goods in short order. Mr. Fryer sends a coolie from Hsuchowfu—three hours by train—with the supplies every day.

The newspapers sent to the captives are censored because it was learned that the bandits were keeping track of the negotiations through making the captives translate the stories to them. When the newspaper supply had been cut off for three days the bandits' messenger requested Mr. Crow to give him newspapers.

"Why?" Mr. Crow asked.

"The bandit chief wants them," he replied.

The Consuls here decided they'd let the bandits worry along a little without news from the outside, however, so only old papers or sections with no bandit news, are being sent. The bandits have not been "censoring" the captives' letters, however, and they are given the latest developments in letters from members of the relief party.

PRECAUTIONS TAKEN

While there is no illness in the camp that is alarming at the present time it was thought that precautions should be taken, especially against dysentery. Consequently Mr. Crow telegraphed three different places for supplies to make sure they would be available, and one anti-dysentery package made up by Dr. Emma Fleming has already been sent in and two other packages sent by Dr. S. A. Ransom of Shanghai and Dr. A. A. MacFadyen of Hsuchowfu are being held for an emergency. The relief party simply wanted remedies available in case any of the captives should contract dysentery.

The cigars on the list are of two distinct varieties—to smoke, and not to smoke. Some of the captives discovered that by presenting their bandit guards with a cigar now and then they secured favors from them that they would not otherwise get. To the bandits a cigar is merely a cigar, so Carl Crow made a raid on a local Chinese shop, purchased a thousand at an absurd price fully in keeping with their quality, and the bandits are now puffing away perfectly contented. The box of smokable cigars are for Friedman, Powell, Solomon, and other cigar lovers in the camps. (Can you imagine "J. B." and Lee Solomon without a cigar?)

COPPER NOTES

To enable the captives to carry on friendly negotiations with their captors, Crow also enclosed a number of copper notes in the last shipment that was sent. The notes represent about five cents in hone t-to-heck money, but now that the bandits are over their first spree through the money they secured in the raid they have gotten back to their old monetary standards where a cash is a cash—and hence the copper notes are expected to come in handy.

One of the most unexpected—and surely one of the most welcome treats to some of the captives—was sent by the Bandit Express yesterday. British Consul-General Tours of Tsinanfu received a complete cocktail outfit and after mixing one for members of the relief party during which it was discovered that one mixing would make exactly fourteen cocktails, a bottle of cocktails was sent "into the hills" in a thermos flask. A toast, "May they be out safe and well soon," was drunk by the relief expedition members just before the Bandit Express set off.

This accounts also for the short delay in its publication.

Goto Submits Plan For Soviet Pact

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, May 25.—The attention, especially of those most interested in a resumption of trade intercourse with the Soviet, is now centered on the Government, to which Viscount Goto has transfered everything.

The press is busily conjecturing the probable official attitude but nothing so far can be ascertained as to whether anything definite will be done with a view to opening a third conference.

In a long statement published over his own name Viscount Goto, who now declares that he is no longer in the limelight, advances his reasons as to why recognition of the Soviet in a formal agreement would be desirable.

The statement proceeds to detail the "compromise" conditions of the agreement based on the views of the Government and of M. Joffe as imparted to himself.

These conditions provide for the elimination of responsibility of the two countries in regard to the Nikolaievsk and other unfriendly acts, and the announcement of a definite date by Japan for the voluntary evacuation of Sagbalien, the disposal of which to be arranged by sale or by joint commercial rights.

The conditions laid down by Viscount Goto in the published statement are considered to be impossible as a basis of discussion with Russia, according to a statement by the Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs to the press.

BASEBALL TODAY

The Shanghai and "All Navy" teams will clash at the ball park today, in what Herby Gallop says will be the best game of the season. Hostilities open at 3 o'clock. President McIntyre announces that the office of the baseball club in the clubhouse on the grounds is now open, and that members may purchase membership cards there, or pay for membership for which they have subscribed. The office will be open after two o'clock.

SHANGHAI WINS OVER THE NAVY EASILY BY 7 TO 1

Gallopers Have No Trouble In Disposing Of Sailors; Play Again Today

By Westa

Some of these outfits that are passing resolutions condemning the bandit outbreak and calling on the powers to send in armed forces could make a far better use of their time and energy by getting up a petition to Herby Gallop asking him to quit knocking the everlasting daylight out of the navy.

There's hardly a day goes past that the Gallopers do not scuttle the warshippers and there is no doubt in the minds of those who have given serious thought to this deplorable state of affairs that every time the sailors go down the demands of the bandits go up. Those birds are getting the idea into their beans that the sailors are easy picking and if Gallop's gang isn't called off pretty soon we will have bandits paddling out to the warships in sampans with chips on their shoulders.

The score was 7 to 1.

Maloney started on the mound for the Kingman crew and started out by taking a nap. During his nap he dreamed that he was back in the navy, and while under the influence of this dream he hit one of the sailors in the ribs. Asked about this later Mal explained that he dreamed the one he hit was an officer and that he had just issued an order that all the ball players in the navy should be deprived of their shore leave. Naturally, said Mal, I couldn't refrain from busting him after that.

Well, that one got to first and then, while Mal was still rubbing his eyes, the next one up got a hit, which brought the punctured one home. That was their first and last chance to figure in the statistics.

Mal went on for two more innings after that, still mad at the imaginary officer who had robbed him and his mates of shore leave, until finally Herby turned him loose so he could go round back of the grandstand and vent his wrath by biting holes in the bamboo fence. The Hudford Taylor took up the burden after that and as he was hitting on all twelve cylinders the navy had the choice of climbing into the topmost branches of the trees or being smeared all over the road. So they clumb.

The Gallopers started offensive operations in the fourth by scoring two. In the fifth they collected a couple more, adding another pair in the sixth. They were all set to grab off a duo in the seventh but as they didn't bat in this inning it was unnecessary. If the game had gone the limit they undoubtably would have got a brace in the eighth and then finished off with a deuce in the ninth and in the event of extra innings it is not two much to say they could have enlarged their score by at least twain. Our gang was in a deucedly scoring mood.

Harry Kingman, skipper, was on first and put up his customary stylish exhibition, topping it off with a two base bust in the fourth. The boys engineered a brace of double plays that were beauties, and all in all showed that they are approaching a form that bodes nothing but a whole flock of ill for that Huron gang when they return here for the Fourth of July party.

St. John's Wins From Nanking, 12-9

In spite of the absence of several of their star players, who are at present engaged at the Far Eastern Games St. John's University defeated Nanking University in the first series of the E. C. I. A. A. Baseball Championship by a score of 12-9 on Monday afternoon at St. John's ground.

The sophomore debating team of St. John's University won the final inter-class debate held on Monday evening in the Alunni Hall by defeating the first class on a debate on "Resolved that to develop agriculture is of more urgent necessity than industry at present in China" Dr. C. C. Wu, Minister of Foreign Affairs of the South, Dr. J. H. Lee, president of Fuh Tan University and Mr. K. Y. Kya, president of Kiangsu Second Normal School were the judges. It was the fine rebuttal that gave the margin to the sophomore team. Fifteen minutes were given for the leaders for rebuttals. The supporters were given ten minutes for their argument. After the presentation of main arguments and rebuttals the judges retired for a short discussion and then Dr. Wu announced the decision in favor of the sophomores.

Rifle Association Small Bore Club

The attention of the above is called to The Shanghai Rifle Association Small Bore Club which is now formed. Rules etc. have been drawn up, and it is proposed to inaugurate the fine small bore ranges built on the Range property, with an open Meeting in June, the opening shoot to be for ladies only. Full particulars will be announced shortly. Some delay has been unavoidable in making arrangements for the new Club. Naturally the bulk of Shanghai rifle shots are members of the Defence Forces, and with a busy time on Volunteer matters in March and April, and now the S. R. A. Meeting, this has delayed matters.

It is hoped now to get things going and hold at least one meeting per month during the year. Lady shots will be particularly welcome. In the old S. R. A. days ladies were often seen on the range with the full bore rifle, and with the lighter weapon should be seen in numbers at the Small Bore Club.

If any lady or gentleman interested will drop a card to Mr. H. W. Lambert, 1, Chusan Road, to that effect, he will give full particulars of the Club and propose them for membership.

S'HAI TELEPHONE SYSTEM IS BETTER THAN LONDON'S

Calls Are Answered And Cleared Quicker, Tests Show

The Shanghai Mutual Telephone Company had a profitable year as the accounts just published reveal. With the Tls. 22,164 brought forward from last year, the amount available is Tls. 208,643.47 for the year ending March 31, 1923. The Directors recommend distributing this as follows: To a dividend of Tls.4.50 per share, provide for debenture sinking fund Tls. 13,756, add to reserve account Tls. 20,000, pay directors' fees Tls. 5,000, and carry forward to next year's account Tls. 10,284.56.

The premium on the new issue of 10,000 shares has been added to the share premium reserve. The new issue was made at a premium of Tls. 10 per share.

In their report the Directors state:

The work in every department has increased this year very considerably, the net increase in new lines being 1,728 and telephones 2,068. Although the net increase is not quite as large as that shown last year, the actual number of instruments fitted is considerably more, the difference being accounted for by a large number being taken down owing to many institutions such as the so-called Stock Exchanges giving up business. The total number of direct lines is now 14,059 and telephone instruments including extensions 17,653. A large amount of underground conduits and cable work has been completed and some 8,600 miles of single wire brought into use, together with 737 miles of aerial wire. Great progress has been made, in the Central District and where possible in other Districts, in wiring underground directly from the Exchange to the subscribers' buildings. This should free us from climatic insulation troubles and tend to improve the service.

The extension of West Exchanges that was reported as necessary last year, has been delivered and installed, affording additional capacity for 2,000 lines. The Automatic Exchange for the Eastern District has, from the latest advice, now been shipped and will be completed in from three to four months after arrival. The extension at Central, which was just completed at the time of our last meeting, together with that at the West Exchange and the additional junctions that have been supplied between all Exchanges, have greatly improved the service as new positions have been opened and the work of the operator lessened.

During the year between 2,000 to 3,000 tests have been made by a special inspector standing by the telephone while the subscriber himself made the call, with the following results:

Shanghai Answering 4.8 seconds, Clearing 3.4 seconds.

London Answering 6.1 seconds, Clearing 5.6 seconds.

which shows that in comparison with the latest London figures the actual times of answering a call and clearing a connection are better in Shanghai. Also, the percentage of trouble dealt with per day, calculated on the total number of telephones, has been reduced from .91 to .83.

Dry Regulation Now Up To Harding

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, May 24.—The officials who are drafting new regulations to give effect to the decision of the Supreme Court with regard to the transportation of liquors in American waters, have apparently abandoned the hope of writing round the decision so that there will be no conflict between the regulations and foreign laws with regard to liquor rations to crews.

They have submitted the situation to Mr. Andrew Mellon, the Secretary of the Treasury, and it is regarded as certain that the matter will be referred to President Harding after Mr. Mellon has fully considered it. It is believed that Mr. Mellon has been urged to postpone the enforcement of the regulations beyond June 10.

(Reuter's Service)

Cairo, May 24.—It is reported that the American Minister has handed to the Egyptian Premier a petition, signed by 6,000 Egyptian women, urging the introduction of prohibition and that the Premier has promised to submit the matter to Parliament.

800,000 Listen To Empire Day Talks

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 24.—A feature of the Empire Day celebrations was the laying of wreaths of beautiful flowers on the Cenotaph on behalf of the Dominions and the Colonies in the presence of a large crowd.

In London alone 800,000 school children listened to Their Majesties' gramophone messages. The children paraded, saluted the flag and then were given a holiday.

Peking, May 25.—Mr. Chang Ying-hua took up the post of Minister of Finance yesterday afternoon.

Sixteen Lost In Wreck Of Vessel

Latest particulars received from Dairen from Captain Buhre of the Teli show that sixteen persons lost their lives in the collision between that boat and the Wanli, both of which vessels are chartered by the Jardine Transport Company.

Of the sixteen lives lost, nine were Chinese deck passengers, one fireman, three seamen, the compradore and his two tali.

The Wanli sank in six minutes, the weather being described as bad, with a very thick fog which made the visibility very difficult. Both the captain and the European chief officer of the Wanli are safe.

There was on board 1,250 tons of beans and cereals consigned for Shanghai, and the estimated insurance on this is a lakh of taels. The Wanli is stated to be insured for Tls. 200,000.

The Teli has put into dry dock at Dairen, and after the repairs will sail for Shanghai. She is expected to be here within a week.

Bowra Explains Loan; No Effect On Customs Building

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 25.—With reference to the assertion of the Far Eastern Times that the Customs had advanced the sum earmarked for the Customs building in Shanghai for the payment of the salaries of Members of Parliament, Reuter's representative learns that Mr. Bowra recently agreed to give small temporary help to the Government from the Internal Customs Funds for the payment of Ministers and their staff and of Consular officers abroad.

The advance will in no way interfere with the building of the new Customs House at Shanghai.

It is understood that the staffs of the Chinese Legations received their pay recently for June last year.

Communists Stir Trouble In Ruhr

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 24.—There have been serious Comminist disturbances in the Ruhr, notably at Gelsenkirchen and Dortmund.

According to a report from Reuter's correspondent in Berlin, five persons were killed and 50 wounded at Gelsenkirchen, where the Communists occupied the central police station and hoisted the red flag and raided public houses and shops. The French are not interfering.

According to Reuter's correspondent at Cologne, two persons were killed and 20 wounded at Gelsenkirchen yesterday evening in a conflict between a crowd of unemployed strikers, incited by the Communists, and the security police, who are reported to have been unable to cope with the situation.

It is officially admitted that 24 casualities occured in similar disturbances at Dortmund but it is believed that there were really 40.

A prominent Communist asserted that the object was to secure French intervention, leading to the disarmament of the security police and facilitating a possible Putsch.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 24.—It is reported from Duesseldorf from a French source that there are over 50,000 strikers in the Dortmund district and that the movement is spreading daily.

The Communists are endeavoring to engineer a general strike in the Ruhr and there is talk of proclaiming a Workers' Republic of the Ruhr.

A recrudescence of sabotage on the Ruhr railways is reported.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, May 24.—It is reported from Dortmund that the Association of German Miners, the Union of Christian Workers and the Association of Polish Workers have appealed to the Ruhr miners denouncing the "work of disorganisation carried on by Russian emissaries, which is tending to destroy the unity of front of the miners and to annihilate the freedom of the workers."

Anglo-Russ Outlook Now Much Brighter

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 24.—Reuter's Agency learns that the general situation between Britain and Russia is considered much brighter and the prospects of a rupture are considered remote.

While official comment on the Russian Note to Britain is impossible owing to the fact that the Cabinet, to which Marquess Curzon is understood to have told M. Krassin that he would submit it, has not yet been properly constituted, well-informed persons consider the Note unusally conciliatory. Superfically it appears very satisfactory but on closer examination it does not seem to give real satisfaction to the British demands.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

May 25, 1923

Spot and forward bar silver were each down 3-16d. in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 66¾ cents and the London New York cross rate to 462¾. The only changes in our quotations here today were a drop in the Gold Dollar rate to 73¼ and a rise in the Franc rate to 1105.

Our market in the early part of the morning was inclined to be easy but steadied up during the day. At the opening a fair amount of business in Sterling was done at 3-2 9-16 for May delivery, 3-2⅞ for June and 3-2⅝ for July.

Gold Dollars were done as low as 74 5-16 for near and forward deliveries. After speculators had bought a fair amount at these rates, the market steadied up until there were sellers of Sterling at 3-2⅝ for May delivery, 3-2 9-16 for June, 3-2½ for July and 3-2 7-16 for August.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at 74½ for near and forward deliveries. There were sellers of Yen at 65⅞ for practically all deliveries with buyers at 65⅝. Banks were quoting 3-3, 76¼ and 1145 for Sterling, Gold Dollar, and Franc bills respectively.

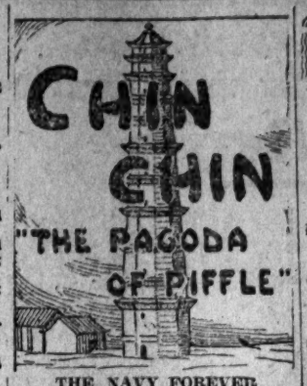
Lord Robert's Visit To America

(New York Times, April 28)

THE Gentleman with a Duster had to cross to this side of the ocean to find a line in literature on which to construct his comments concerning Lord Robert Cecil's career as a statesman. It was one of Emerson's: "Nothing great was ever achieved without enthusiasm." The conclusion was that if Lord Robert had been a fanatic instead of possessing the very antithesis of a fanatical temper, if nature had fashioned him either pachydermatous or pugilistic, or if he had appeared on the platform as a toreador leaping into a bull ring instead of a gentleman entering a drawing room, he would have made more political progress. All this may be true; but if he had been all that the anonymous editorist lamented that he was not, he certainly would not be leaving America today with so much goodwill for his cause and for himself as he is carrying back from all those parts of America that have seen him or even heard the sound of his voice.

Like a nameless saint in a city temporarily under interdict, who carried beneath his cloak the model of his disfavored city when he went to receive the blessing of the Pontiff and so got for it what was intended for him alone, Lord Robert, carrying in his heart the model of the League, has undoubtedly won for it some of the favor which was intended for his own engaging personality. He has not confuted Emerson's saying, for the Sage of Concord could not have found a better illustration of his doctrine of the value of whole-hearted enthusiasm. To be sure, no one can think of such a fair-minded, clear-reasoning, gentle advocate as a fanatic, but he has given himself unreservedly along with his idea. The cause has consumed him and he has sacrificed his individual peace for the world peace. He has been a very prince of courtesy as well as master of penetrating argument in answering those who came to heckle or ridicule. He, as the leading spirit of the League, though denied membership in its Council by his home Government and compelled to go to South Africa for a commission, has made its purpose and operation clearer to thousands in America. That itself is adequate justification for his mission.

Those who greeted him on his arrival with the question why he had come, and those who more courteously asked why he had been so long in coming, now unite in asking as he leaves, after his too brief visit: "When will you come again?"



THE NAVY FOREVER

JOHNNY Poe, the old Princeton football star, went down to Central America shortly after his graduation from college, as a soldier of fortune. He hadn't stay more than landed there than he was all tangled up in one of those perennial revolutions, and after a time found himself in hot water. So hot, as a matter of fact, that he had to run for his life.

Johnny was a good runner, as any Harvard or Yale alumnus will tell you, remembering how he used to run circles around their football teams, and was able, thanks to his talented legs, to make his getaway. Finally, after a long sprint, Johnny arrived at a wild section of the seashore, and stood there looking up and down the coast, humming that familiar old tune: "Where do we go from here?"

Just then what should come steaming up over the horizon but the American Destroyer, John Paul Jones, one of the fleet now at Chefoo for summer target practice. (The Paul Jones will be back here later in the summer and if you don't believe this story after I get through telling it you can ask Lieutenant Al Jennings, one of the officers, who will verify it)

WELL, just as Johnny had about made up his mind to rig up some sort of a fishing pole to see if he couldn't persuade one of the craniate vertebrates in the Caribbean sea that an extension of his stay in salt water undoubtably would prove injurious to its health, and that it had better come ashore and join him at supper—just as Johnny was planning this bit of hospitality for the fish, what should interrupt his meditations but the whistle of the John Paul Jones, which came steaming up to the wharf with no other than our old friend Al Jennings at the wheel.

"Saved!" exclaimed Johnny, dramatically, "Hurrah for the American navy! Long may she wave!"

And with that he ran down to the Jones and started to climb aboard.

"Just a minute, young man," cautioned Al, who had come down off the bridge, "don't be too previous; this is no passenger liner."

Al had just graduated from the Academy at that time and was very finiky about the navy's regulations. It was iron in his soul for a common civilian to so much as look at one of the navy vessels, of which he was then, as now, almost fanatically proud.

AT this Johnny's spirits fell. He knew that a flock of those wild eyed Igorrotes who inhabit that part of Guatemala were only about a mile behind him, furiously chopping their way through the banana vines with their bolo knives, bent on capturing him and severing his head from his tokus. Knowing this he started to argue with Al, and as his arguments carried all the conviction of the feverish desperation under which he was laboring Al began to yield.

"Well," the Lieutenant finally asked, "how much baggage have you got."

Seeing that he had won his point and that his life was safe Johnny was so tremendously relieved that he felt, as he explained afterwards, like he had just got word that he had fallen heir to a million dollars. He must have felt that way, because he told Al in reply to the latter's query, that he had fifty four pieces of baggage.

"Fifty-four pieces!" exclaimed Al, as he hurriedly pulled up the gangplank. "Nothing doing for you on this boat if that's the case. This is a destroyer, not a lighter!"

"Oh, that's all right," retorted Johnny as he vaulted over the rail onto the deck just as the first of the pursuing revolutionists emerged from the woods. "They've only a pack of cards and a pair of socks!"

A Column Of Verse

A Dead Warrior

(From The London Spectator)

Here sown to dust lies one that drave
The furrow through his heart;
Now, of the fields he died to save
His own dust forms a part.

Where went the tramp of martial feet,
The blare of trumpets loud,
Comes silence with her winding-sheet,
And shadow with her shroud.

His mind no longer counsel takes,
No sword his hand need draw,
Across whose borders peace now makes
Inviolable law.

So, with distraction round him stilled,
Now let him be content!
And time from age to age shall build
His standing monument.

Not here, where strife, and greed, and lust
Grind up the bones of men;
But in that safe and secret dust
Which shall not rise again.

LAURENCE HOUSMAN.

A Dewdrop

(From The London Spectator)

The dewdrop carries in its eye
Snowdon and Hebog, sea and sky,
Twelve lakes at least, woods, rivers, moors,
And half a county's out-of-doors:
Trembling beneath a wind-flower's shield
In this remote and rocky field.

But why should man in God's name press
The dewdrop's inconspicuousness
When to lakes, woods, the estuary,
Hebog and Snowdon, sky and sea,
This dewdrop falling from its leaf
Can spread amazement near to grief
As it were a world distinct in mold
Lost with its beauty ages old?

ROBERT GRAVES.

Having Seen Men Killed

(From The Chapbook)

When by chance
As I turn up the brow of the hill,
At a glance
I perceive there's a new grave to fill,
And I see
All the poor apparatus of death—
The straight hole
And the planks and the lowering rope;
And the toll
Of the bell and the mirage of hope
In the words
Duly mumbled for those that remain—
Then I smile
"Fine morning," nod to the sexton's nod,
For a while
Wonder if Einstein proves or disproves God,
But how soon
Find myself cheerfully humming a tune.

RICHARD ALDINGTON.

Last Night In March

(From The N. American Review)

The night is filled with shy new venturings,
Winds unused to the miracle of wings;
Flutter and swirl, a sudden swift retreat,
And silence where were now impetuous feet,
Slow shadowhands stealing about my eyes;
Almost the winds break out in little cries—
So sweet to be an almost-April breath,
About the hidden face of daffodil,
The frogs start thinly piping to the spring
An arrowy wisp of song; and when winds bring
That alien note past each unharing leaf
I feel a melancholy joy in grief—
So sweet would be an almost-April death.

BERENICE K. VAN SLYKE.

The Way of Sleep

(From The Chapbook)

Give me a sleepy woman
All soft and white and kind,
A somnolent dear human
Who will not fret my mind.
Give me an August Sunday
When no cloud is in the sky,
Lay my bed in a poppy field
And let me die.

For I am tired of eidelweiss,
Of mounts and mists and streams,
Tired of the paths of eagles;
Tired of the way of dreams;
And I am tired of a woman
With a full and flaming eye.
Lay my bed in a poppy field
And let me die.

PASSION

Literature Of Gloom

BY FRANK CRANE

The other day an 18-year-old Barnard college junior, a girl physically perfect and handsome, committed suicide by drinking potassium cyanide.

She announced that her reason for doing this was to be found in her reading of a book whose pessimism, gloom, cowardice and perverted egotism had so preyed upon her mind that her life did not seem worth while.

The book was called "The Journal of a Disappointed Man." It was a chronicle of the thoughts of a lad of 14 carried through to young manhood, and contained a record of disillusionment and failure. He died at the age of 28.

This young lady was not a failure, judging by all outward standards. She had achieved honors in economics, sociology, zoology and anthropology. She had plenty of funds and many friends.

All this furnishes a striking illustration of the harm the gloom spreader can do.

We have a way of calling tragic books strong and refer to plays and novels as "strong" when they record a succession of moral gripes. It seems to be a common notion that tragedy is superior to comedy, more thoughtful, more worth while. All this, in my opinion, is nonsense.

Joy is infinitely more complex, adventurous and interesting than sorrow. It is harder to understand. Further than that, it takes a strong personality to endure it. Any weakling can suffer, any pusillanimous soul can whine.

Almost all young authors in their first works write some sort of gloomy stuff. It is the easiest thing in the world to write, for the simple reason that a howl of pain attracts more attention than a smile.

As far as I am concerned I am glad that I have never lent my pen to any such noxious product, for I think if one cannot say something that shall contribute to the health, the courage or the contentment of his fellow men he would infinitely better not write at all.

I not only do not write gloom stuff, but I never read it if I can help it. Nature has supplied me with all the gloom I need and I do not need the assistance of art.

I persist in my belief that no artist has any right to make any work that is not beautiful, and, more generally speaking, no human being has a right to say or do anything that can encourage the fears, the morbidity or the despair of the world.

The gentleman who wrote this book which occasioned the suicide of the lady died shortly after he wrote it. His mistake was that he did not die before he wrote the book.

Blooming Grove, Ohio

BY BOYDEN SPARKES

(In The New York Tribune)

One of the wasteful practices of our form of government is the custom of turning ex-Presidents adrift after they have served their term of office, leaving them work out their destinies as gentlemen dowagers of the White House. Some day, perhaps, it will be arranged that these public servants shall be harnessed to the government for life, but in the meantime each one in turn is confronted with the problem of disposing of himself becomingly.

President Harding, according to a dispatch from Marion, recently has acquired the farm where he was born and plans to end his days there writing things that can't be told now and seeking to cut down his golf score in what used to be his grandfather's cow pasture.

The dispatch from Marion, Ohio, said that French Crow, the postmaster there, had completed the deal for the purchase of some 250 acres at Blooming Grove that had belonged to the President's grandfather, and that it was the intention of Mr. Harding to build a home and surround it with a golf course. It will be the first golf course in Morrow County, and the question arises as to the identity of those with whom the next ex-President is going to compete. Surely not with any of his Morrow County relatives—and neary all of his neighbors there will be kins folk—for they will be too busy with their farm work. If his companions are visitors from the outside world—well, Morrow County isn't likely to approve of any such foolishness as golf. A body might better spend his time chopping wood.

Once he finds himself settled in the reconstructed home of his youth there is more than an even chance that Mr. Harding will find that he has been bitten by a desire to know what is going on in Washington, to know about things that can't be heard on the radio no matter what wave length he tunes in on.

Of course, he can visit his neighbors. There is the place next door. It is on a rise of ground that is called a hill in that level region. There is a cherry tree in the front yard, its boughs brushing against the uncompromising porch. On the side porch there is an iron pump, equipped with a rust speckled tincup hung on a projection molded on the pump for that very purpose. Peer through the side window of the parlor (if the blinds are not down) and examine the dizzy pattern of the carpet. It is a rich shade of cream, disfigured with roses as large as cabbages. Arranged abut the room is a lifetime of mail order catalogue furniture selections, mostly golden oak. The gilt chandelier has two arms, swelling at the ends into glass globes with white chimneys, which point an upward path for the acetylene gas smoke that has faintly splotched the ceiling.

"Take chairs," says the occupant of this farmhouse, when his new neighbors come to call. "I remember you, Mr. President, when you came back here from college on a visit. You had a black mustache, not very thick, but I wished then that I could raise one like it. Now tell me about this golf game. Do you try to hit the other fellow's ball when you shoot?"

After that point has been explained the Hardings may go to call on one of his old schoolmates. She is a woman who remembers the President as a right pleasant little fellow, who left Blooming Grove soon after he started going to the one-room schoolhouse where his father was teacher.

"Come right in," she'll say, swinging wide the front door, with a gesture that puts an additional strain on the blue calico frock already engaged in a struggle to keep her ample form from protruding at hook and eye gaps.

Anybody reared in Ohio will understand that the cloth that swathes her head is not a boudoir cap. It is a dusting cap and a badge of domestic industry. "Now tell me," she will say to Mrs. Harding, "how did you manage to feed all those folks that used to pile in on you at the White House? I should think Warren'd get awfully tired batting that silly little ball around the pasture lot. Do you know what he sees in that game?"

When that call is completed there is still the general store at the cross-roads to be visited. This used to be the postoffice before the government decided that it was wasteful extravagance to maintain one there. Maybe there are two stores there now and, of course, the gasoline filling station. It is not an especially inviting place to shop, though the proprietors are genial folks, always glad of a chance to gossip.

A few doors from the cross-roads is the home of the oldest inhabitant of Blooming Grove. If he should be in his garden among his tomato vines he won't stop to pick another worm when he hears the hearty hail of Mr. Harding from the side yard. Extending a gnarled, brown hand, shaking with palsy, he'll say:

"Well, now, this is right kind of you. You know I've been a-wanting to tell you something. I wasn't for you. No, sir. I was for that California fellow. What's his name? Johnson. But I guess I was wrong. You did pretty good. I can remember you when you were a little fellow. I was a wool buyer then. I guess you was pretty small when your daddy moved over Caledonia way. Say, tell me about this golf. How do you ccunt?"

Perhaps that very night Mr. Harding will look up from his copy of "The Marion Daily Star" and steal a glance at Mrs. Harding. Laddie Boy, wearing a bored expression, will be gazing into the library fire and making uncomplimentary comparisons between this modern house and the White House. "Shucks," he'll say to himself with a growl, "I was born in Ohio, too, but that's no reason why I have to die here."

"Duchess," the President will say, "what do you say to a trip to Bolivia or, say, Australia?"

A few weeks later the golf greens on the private course will be yellow with dandelions.

More Truth Than Poetry

BY S. E. KISER

It appears to be the fashion to give tips on etiquette;
Here are certain admonitions to remember—don't forget:

When you eat with total strangers don't upset or rock the table;
Show them that your manners never were acquired in a stable.

When a millionaire invites you for a week-end at his place,
Don't make fun of his religion, or, at least, don't to his face;
If his wife is young and pretty do not let your conversation
Indicate that you are eager to begin a wild flirtation.

Don't endeavor to convince him that it's vulgar to have wealth;
Do not drink up all his liquor, keep your mind upon your health;
Don't make faces at his children or imagine that it's funny,
When it's time to be departing, to attempt to borrow money.

Do not foolishly shout "Fire!" when surrounded by a crowd;
Hand no challenges to others who are big and strong and proud;
Never tell the world you "done it"; farther's proper, never "futher,"
And don't argue with policemen; there is nothing in it, brother.

Don't believe that you're the only one whose way is always right,
Nor deceive yourself by thinking everything you say is bright;
Don't, when writing to a lady, call her Babykins or Duckie,
Or you're likely to discover that the practice is unlucky.

Grimble, Accused Of Fraud, In Court

An "old familiar face" appeared before Judge Peter Grain (sitting as Magistrate) at the British Police Court yesterday, when Joseph Grimble, described as a book-keeper, of no fixed abode, was charged with having obtained a silver watch and $20 from a Chinese under false pretences.

Mr. Eardley Maitland appeared for the Police, and stated that he would ask the Magistrate to remand the case for further inquiries. Only evidence of arrest was given.

Det. Inspector Conduit said he arrested the accused Tuesday, at the Foochow Hospital, Foochow. The warrant was read to him and he was cautioned. He made no reply. The prisoner arrived here yesterday.

Mr. Maitland remarked that there were two other charges to be preferred against the accused, one of having obtained money, and an overcoat by false pretences, on March 14, and a similar charge as to money in January last. Defendant was remanded in custody until Wednesday next. Grimble, who has cultivated a bushy head of hair and who limps worse than ever, is the individual who came here from Vladivostok some months ago and sold a well known man three pieces of glass for $100, pretending that they were Alexandrites. He was sentenced to a term of imprisonment. He claimed close association with British Consuls and officials. As a matter of fact he was born in Hongkong, and is said to be the son of a policeman.

Russians Coming Here, Seeking Work

(Independent News Service)

Hankow, May 16.—There are still about a hundred Russian refugees in Hankow living mostly in Chinese hotels. Since their coming to Hankow they have met with some encouragement from the local Russian community in the way of help, but it is found necessary that they should be sent away from the port to Shanghai and Peking so that they can secure employment there.

Almost every day a few of them leave for those places. It is now reported that in Korea, the Japanese government is offering work to Russian refugees in the construction of the Gansen Railway. There are about 1,000 Russians on the job now being engaged in drainage and field work. One thousand more will be required on that railway, which offers a fine opening for refugee labor.
